

Forthcoming Books

- Bell, John, Julian Cole, Graham Priest and Alan Slomson (eds.). The Proceedings of the Bertrand Russell Memorial Logic Conference. 350 pp. Spring 1973. c. £3.50. For details, write to Dr. Slomson, School of Mathematics, The University, Leeds, LS2 9JT, England. From a circular: "The particular stimulus for the conference was opposition among some logicians to NATO finance for logic conferences." "It was thought that [Russell] would have approved the guiding spirit of the conference, namely that mathematics cannot be cut off from other human activities." It seems to us that BR would have affirmed the former proposition and denied the latter, but we await the editors' explanation.
- Feinberg, Barry and Ronald Kasrils (eds.). Bertrand Russell in America. Vol. 1: 1896-1944. London: Allen & Unwin, May(?) 1973. A narrative of facts and letters describing BR's various lecture tours and friendships in the U.S., followed by a selection of his writings on America.
- Lackey, Douglas P. (ed.). Bertrand Russell: Essays in Analysis. London: Allen & Unwin. March(?) 1973. c.350 pp. £ 5.50. A selection, with editorial comments, of BR's logical and epistemological writings, some of them hitherto unpublished, with an extensive bibliography of writings by and about Russell on logic.
- Nakhnikian, George (ed.). The Philosophy of Bertrand Russell: A Centenary Tribute. London: Duckworth. Spring 1973. £ 4.45. The papers are from the Indiana University Russell centenary conference.
- Revue Internationale de Philosophie*. Vol. 26, No.101: March(?) 1973. Approx. 400 pp. 250 F.B. [$6.00]. The entire issue will be devoted to Russell's philosophy.
- Roberts, George (ed.). [Critical articles on Bertrand Russell]. [3 vols.]. This collection is, unfortunately, only at the rumour stage, as we have not been able to obtain verification of it from the editor.
- Thomas, John E. and Kenneth Blackwell (eds.). Russell in Review: The Bertrand Russell Centenary Celebrations, McMaster University, October 12-14, 1972. A selection of the outstanding papers at this conference. Publisher to be announced.